PUBLIC ENTERTAINMENTS.

Wallack's-"The Colleen Baws The production of "The Colleen Bawn" last night at Wallack's was not an absolute and unqualified artistic success, although Mr. Shiel Barry's impersonation of Miles Na-Coppaleen was. As this was the principal event of the evening, perhaps it is as well to say all that concerns it first. Beautiful as we all remember Mr. Boucleault's representation of the same part to have been, Mr. Barry sustains mparison with it. He has not perhaps as much ctuonsness as Mr. Boucicauit, but his humor is dry, so quaint, so spontaneous, so unaffected, it is so graduated as to admit of pathetic touches those little serious passages which give dighigh expectations that had been formed of Mr. Barry were realized. It was at first feared that he Earry were realized. It was at first feared that he was a one part actor, incapable of doing anything eige respectably because he had acted Michael Feeney to perfection. The few moments succeeding his entrance on the stage discelled this rear, however, and every fresh scene ratified the endorsement that he early won. Yet we do not think that his interpretation of Miles will integlio as deeply and finely in the hearts of the public as his Michael Feeney did, for the simple reason that the last mentioned character has its stronger and darker elements in it, and appeals to a set of emotions more firmly rooted than mere tenderness and sympathy. As a whole, however, Mr. barry's Miles deserves to be emphasized as a distinct piece of character building, the parts of which are well compacted and striking. The part of Elly O'Connor was entrusted to Miss Kate Frazer Fox, and in this respect the artistic success of the evening was somewhat curtailed; for Miss Fox, while betraying at times a tenderness of action and voice which corresponded to the demands of the role, has a passionless and inexpressive ince, and evinced in twenty little ways that she is a novice in this line of ausiness. She is a more robust Elly than we have been in the habit of admiring, and though her efforts were respectable for a novice they were not tuned to that pitch which makes one cease for the time to lament the absence of old favorites. Mr. McKee Rankin made an excellent Danny Mann, a difficult part for an actor unfamiliar with it to do matice to on short notice; Mine. Ponist performed Mrs. Cregan with the requisite dignity, dashed with that cruelty which could connive at a deed of riolence; and Miss Kitty Blanchard brought all accessary vivacity to the role of Ann Chute. was a one part actor, incapable of doing anything

Earnshaw have brought the Royal Marionettes to binson Hall for the sake of showing the New York sublic what good acting is like, and of clevating and purifying the stage. If this is so we certainly sught to feel obliged to these gentlemen, for their ork is only a continuation of the intention of Mr lames Steele Mackaye, when, a couple of years o illustrate a new school of art. Mr. Mackaye was pupil of Delsarte, and Mr. McDonough and Mr. haw are evidently apostles of Mr. Mackaye. Mr. McDonough has been an actor himself, familian with all the grades of the old school of acting from ts primer up to its Pentateuch. We who speak to you have seen him play Brutus in a man. that Mr. Davenport need not despise, and dance, in saucer petticoats, a pas seul with an epicene grace which the only Leon depth of dramatic potentiality, surely it must be a man like this, with classic tragedy forming one cusp of his crescent capabilities, and the wench business constituting the other. Mr. McDonough saw that the New York, that is to say the American, stage, was in a perilous condition. He saw that too many of our stock actors were sticks, and that too many of our star actors were sticklers. and he kindly rushed to the rescue. For our part, and he kindly rushed to the rescue. For our part, as we said before, we appreciate his intention. We hid not know how low hesh and blood had falled until we saw how high fantoccini could rise. We do not believe that all Washington could show an instance of wire-pulling put to better account. Having seen men and women who cannot act, it becomes interesting to see marionettes that can. True, they have as yet attempted only pantomime, burlesque and negro mustrelsy; but having rivalled Fox, Lydia Thompson and Billy Birch on their own ground, who shall say that the more serious drama shall not be successfully appropriated by them next? Since periormances are given by them every afternoon, there is no reason why our actors and actresses should not go to Robinson Hall in squads. Mr. James Steele Mackaye was a histrionic materialist. He geom trizzed emotion and measured with compass and rule the expression of passion. He carried a dramatic spirit-level in his pocket with which to determine the horizontal lines of art. You might have counted with mathematical precision how many times he rolled his eyes in Hamlet, and how often he curied his lips in Monaldi. He seemed to ignore dramatic inspiration and possibly believed that thought was the simple result of molecular action. He placed great faith in rolles and training and undertook to turn out actors by the gross. Messrs. McDonough and Earnshaw have made a still more audacious attempt and tried to prove the innate superiority of puppets over poor dess and blood. Nevertheless we cannot get over as we said before, we appreciate his intention. We the gross. Messrs, McDonough and Earnshaw have made a still more audacious attempt and tried to prove the linnate superiority of puppets over poor Gesh and blood. Nevertheless we cannot get over our prejudices in layor of humanity. We stick to that marriage of matter and spirit called man, and insist that, until death them do part, it is only humane to do all in one's power to raise and benefit them. There are actors on the New York stage who are no worse than the Royal Marionettes and a few who are a great deal better; and we shall, threefore, cimg to the hope that in time they may become so infinitely superior that no comparison between the two snall be possible. Just at present we think that in certain respects the Robinson Hall management has the best of the argument. Its stock company does all it is advertised to do and that is more than can be said of most stock companies. The Marionettes are supposed to say a great deal, but you seldom see them open their mouths; while your feeh and blood actor opens his mouth perpetually, but seldom says anything as it ought to be said. We do not think the doil drama will do a much more efficient work than the scientific drama did, in superseding the present mode of acting; but it will have served an excellent purpose if it enables some of our actors to see themselves as others see them, and so begin the work to "Kobinson Crusce," the best thing you can give them is Robinson Hall.

Bowery Theatre.

A new three act sensational drams, with the startling title of "Marked for Life," was given at the Bowery Theatre, in order to give an opportunity to Mr. George France, an old avorite of the East side, for an exhibition of his histrionic and melodramatic powers. To say that he pleased his hearers would be mild praise indeed, for he was applianced to the cho and did not want for a most enthusiastic encouragement from his andience, who also seemed convuised by the farce of the "Sheep Stealers," which immediately preceded the Grama.

Theatre Comique.

This well known and popular resort on Broad way was crowded to overflowing, as usual, last evening, several hundred people being turned away from the doors for want even of standing room. A tremendous bill of noveitles was presented to the patrons of the Comique, among the most noticeable of which were the screaming act of the "Mulligan Guards," by Harrigan and Hurt; a budget of serio-comic songs by Miss Jennie linghes, who dresses gorgeously, and wears diamonds enough to be a first lady at the Grand oppers, Miss Kitty O'Neil, in her character dance, and an imitator of Collodion and Regamey, by the mane of Jump, who made a few moments. The rest of the bill was received with hearty applause, and in particular the negro sketch of "Massa's Old Friends was done with great fidelity by Harrigan as Uncle Pete. room. A tremendous bill of novelties was pre-

Night. Mr. A. R. Samuells, the lessee and manager of the New Park Theatre, Brooklyn, announces that he has engaged a strong company with which to open that place of entertainment this evening. He informs us that Miss Isabel Freeman, Miss Helen Tracy, Mrs. C. M. Walcott, Mr. William E. Sheridan, Mr. J. W. Norton, Mr. Owen Marlowe and Mr. r. E. Morris are among his principal stock engage ments, and intimates that eminent star and society plays will be introduced to the public from time to time. A new act drop has been painted by Mr. time. A new act drop has been painted by Mr. Morgan, the central picture of which represents the rescue of John Smith by Pocahontas. The season will begin this evening with "London Assurance" and the following cast:—Charles Courtiey, Mr. W. E. Sheridan; Sir Harcourt Courtley, Mr. Owen Marlowe; Dazzle, Mr. John W. Norton; Max Harkaway, Mr. M. Lanagan; Mark Meddle, Mr. M. W. Fiske; Dolly Spanker, Mr. C. W. Butler; Cool, Mr. Eden Plympton; Solomon Isaacs, Mr. J. W. Dailey; Simpson, a butler, Mr. J. P. With the exception of Mr. Fiske and Mr. Butler, all these performers appear in Brooklyn for the first time.

Professor Pepper and His Scientific

When science enters confessedly into the amusements of a people the hold which it has taken upon them is pretty firm. The only kind of ghost which the average intellect in children and adults can accept without injury is that which is produced by the cunning arrangement of mirrors and re-flecting light, invented by Protessor Pepper a few years ago. It is an invention which has been used in various forms and modifications since, and genin various forms and modifications since, and generally with happy results, so far as the entertainment of audiences is concerned. We observe that Professor Pepper and Professor Tooin are about to unite their forces and to give at Association Hall three illustrated lectures on "The Magic of Light and Sound." Whether the ghost business is to be a part of the programme we do not know, but we hope that it is: for Professor Pepper's ghost is the only modern gobin that has been of the slightest use to mankind. It flies directly in the face of all the conventionalisms and traditions of ghosthood, and, as might be expected of any well-behaved spectre, puts us on the best terms with ourselves, instead of scaring us with a bass voice, a white stroud and an ambiguity of speech which loses itself in sublime non-committaism. Let Professor Pepper and Professor Tobin, then, bring out their ghosts at once.

The San Francisco Cadets will appear in their bindfold drill to-night and to-morrow night at the Academy of Music. Grafulla's Seventh Regiment Band will furnish the music.

Orthodox frequenters at Booth's are as much amazed at "The New Magdalen's" being placed upon the stage there as Bishop Snow's congregaliver a culogy on atheism.

The public is hereby advised that it is Oliver

Doud Byron who is going to appear at Wood's Museum in the emotional part of Ben McCullough, and not Ben McCuliough who intends appearing in a five-act part entitled "Oliver Doud."

We have received one or two notes volunteering information concerning the nationality of Mr. T. C. King, who is to act Quasimodo in "Notre Dame." Mr. King's nationality does not interest us. All that we are concerned with is the manner in which he will perform the part of the hunchback beil-

Good Shooting by the Twelfth Regiment Yesterday-A Team of Fourteen for the October Contest.

About three hundred members (officers and men) of the Twelith regiment left the city yesterday morning for Creedmoor and spent the day in practising, the Twelith being the first to visit Creedmoor as a regiment. Everything passed off pleasantly, except at the Thirty-fourth street ferry, the company compelling the regiment to pay full fare, which Colonel Ward did under protest rather than have trouble. The military code gives the militia free use of all ferries, and the matter will be definitely settled hereafter. The shooting was very fair, considering that nearly all the men are young and never shot at so grea a distance as 500 yards before. Many made good scores at 100 yards, but their scores at 200 and 500 were not good and are not therefore given. Fourteen non-commissioned officers and men were selected for the team for the October match. It is the intention of the Twelfth regiment to have their teams made up of the rank and file, as officers are not supposed to carry moskets. Besides which they are usually oid solders and good shots. The best average shots made yesterday were by Adjutant Murphy. The following were chosen for the team and made five shots each at 500 yards after being selected:—Sergeant McGowan, 12; E. Yeager, 11; Sergeant Reddy, 11; C. B. Waterbury, 11; W. Hope, 8; Sergeant Manly, 7; H. Lovell, 7; Sergeant Boos, 6; Sergeant Woller, 6; W. S. Smith, 6; Sergeant Honstatter, 6; P. Doerle, 4. Captain Burton, Major Powell, Captain Clar. Ranold, Rangekeeper Higgs and a number of others were present and made good shots. Captain Burton and his son, G. W. Burton, made fourteen consecutive buil'seyes (56) at 500 yards, taking turn about. Captain C. Ranold, at the same distance, made sixteen and eignteen fine shots each. The rifies used by the regiment were the Remington military. The following were the twenty-four best shots: very fair, considering that nearly all the men are

PIGEON SHOOTING.

A Handleap of Ten Birds by the Narragansett Gun Club of Newport-First Prize a $300 Cup-Mr. Harry Russell the Winner. NEWPORT, R. L., Sept. 8, 1873.

The Narragansett Gun Club, composed of many of the prominent summer residents at this place, shot a pigeon match on their private grounds at Bryer's Lea House, a few miles from the city, today. It was a handleap of ten birds each for a cup valued at $300; entrance fee, $5, of which the stake went to the second best shooter, and the third saved his entrance. The citie of the aristocracy were present to witness the skill of the gentiemen with the gun, and of the number more than a hundred were ladies, beside the members of the Mexico Claims Commission. Mr. Harry Russell (27 yards) was the winner of the cup, aithough there is a tie between him and Mr. Pierre McCarty (25 yards) in the ten birds. They shot it of, when the latter was beaten. McCarty was awarded the stake, and Mr. Charles A. Post (28 yards) saved his entrance. The following is a SUMMARY.
